EXPENSES
Program Services: describes grants made by the Foundation on behalf of all its funds, including the Community Trust Fund. The Community Trust Fund, which is an endowed fund, is CFGJ’s only unrestricted fund. Grants from the CTF are made through a competitive process, and are limited to 5% of CTF’s balance each year. CTF grants comprise only $60,000 of the more than $2.3 million granted this year by the Community Foundation*.

Supporting Services: includes salaries and other operating expenses indirectly related to the Foundation’s granting tasks.

CFGJ’s operating expenses for the year were just over $519,000, less than 14% of total expenses and less than 1.5% of total assets.

ASSETS
While many of the Community Foundation’s assets are invested in pooled funds at Medley and Brown, CFGJ does have accounts with 13 other investment advisors who manage the investments of specific Funds. The threshold for suggesting an outside investment advisor for your fund is $250,000.

* Total RFP Grants: $94,600

DOWNTOWN JEWEL SHINES BRIGHTLY AGAIN

When the doors of newly renovated Thalia Mara Hall swung open on June 2, 2014, visitors were treated to a striking makeover, breathtaking not only for the aesthetics, but also for the speed and efficiency with which it was accomplished.

Built in 1968, Thalia Mara Hall is home to Ballet Mississippi, the Mississippi Symphony Orchestra, Mississippi Opera and the International Ballet Competition. For decades, it has also been a sought-after venue for concerts, comedy shows, graduations and Broadway-style plays. But in recent years it has begun showing its age, plagued by HVAC problems, roofing issues and out-of-date design.

Recognizing the need to rehabilitate the structure before the 2014 USA International Ballet Competition, Entergy CEO Haley Fisackerly and a group of private and public sector stakeholders formed Friends of Thalia Mara Hall in early 2013. Their original intent was to form a non-profit organization and raise funds to help pay for the needed renovation.

But the group was facing a very tight timeline with construction slated to begin in January 2014. Applying for 501(c)3 status from the IRS can take months, and establishing a new non-profit can mean significant legal and accounting fees.

Learning of their plans, CFGJ President and CEO Jane Alexander contacted Fisackerly and offered a solution – a designated fund at the Community Foundation of Greater Jackson.

Within days, Friends of Thalia Mara Hall began soliciting donations. CFGJ became the fiscal agent, so that the stakeholders could focus exclusively on fundraising.

The advantages of opening a designated fund over establishing a free-standing non-profit organization were compelling. With no need to hire staff, there was no significant overhead. The reputation and stability of the Community Foundation meant that donors could be confident that their gifts were properly spent and accounted for. And every donation was tax-deductible.

Funds donated for Thalia Mara improvements were put in the Friends of Thalia Mara Hall’s Renovation.

Thalia Mara Fund, invested and used specifically for the renovations.

Within months Friends of Thalia Mara Hall raised $1.5 million in private contributions, including key gifts from the Irby Company, the Gertrude C. Ford Foundation, the Selby and Richard McRae Foundation, BankPlus, Mr. and Mrs. William Mounger, BancorpSouth, Entergy, Kane and Betsy Ditto, Trustmark, and Mike McRee.

Those private contributions joined $3 million from the City of Jackson and $1 million in state bond funds to round out the first phase of the project.

Construction began in January 2014 under the direction of Rob Farr and Colby Dearman of Cooke Douglass Farr Lemons Architects & Engineers. The building levels and the grounds surrounding Thalia Mara Hall received much-needed improvements, all in a truly remarkable 90-day window.

Improvements included new seats, carpet, paint, lighting, and wallpaper. Restrooms were expanded and upgraded, and new air conditioning systems installed. The seating plan was reconfigured to increase accessibility for citizens with physical disabilities, providing necessary ADA upgrades and a better overall experience for patrons in wheelchairs. New landscaping and upgraded lighting enhanced the exterior grounds.

And as promised, the new and improved Thalia Mara Hall made its debut as the venue for the International Ballet Competition’s two weeks of performances in June, receiving rave reviews from patrons, as well as IBC competitors and judges from around the world.

This public-private partnership with the Community Foundation allows a jewel in the City’s cultural crown to shine again.
The Eyes on Mississippi Fund is dedicated to archiving on film the firsthand account of Mississippi history through the experience of long-time Mississippi journalist Bill Minor, 91. The project, based on forty hours of taped interviews with Minor and others over the past three years, will serve as a primary document of Mississippi’s twentieth-century history. Funds raised through the CFGJ will initially produce a one-hour film documentary tracking the state’s civil-rights history through Minor’s eyewitness account. The project will be dense with archival photos and film as Minor recalls the state’s racial evolution. Future projects will highlight other journalists who covered Mississippi during times of crises and change.

“I am so grateful for the network of support that the Community Foundation has brought to this project,” said Ellen Ann Fentress, Eyes on Mississippi Fund advisor and writer-producer of the documentary. Fentress is a long-time Mississippi journalist, New York Times contributor and writing teacher in Millsaps College’s continuing education program. Other advisors to the Eyes on Mississippi Fund are Tim Medley and Ward Sumner. The Mississippi Press Association is serving as a partner in the production and distribution of this documentary.

HIGH HOPES FARM FUND -
Field of Interest Fund – opened 10/15/13
The therapeutic horseback riding program at High Hopes Farm in Madison, Mississippi, is a PATH (Professional Association of Therapeutic Horsemanship) member facility that serves participants of all ages and with a range of physical, emotional, behavioral and cognitive challenges.

Many clients would be unable to participate due to other incurred medical costs, if not for support from donors. For clients who qualify for reduced rates, the High Hopes Farm Fund helps offset the costs for the therapeutic riding services and accepts charitable, tax-deductible donations so that underprivileged and underserved riders can benefit.

CONSTRUCTION MINISTRIES CHARITABLE FUND
Designated Fund – opened 11/1/13
Construction Ministries is a nonprofit dedicated to academically supporting, employing and training West and South Jackson 16-19-year-olds who have dropped out of high school and/or are homeless. Through this program, the teens learn trade skills in construction and landscaping while providing free home repairs to the elderly, disabled and financially needy in their communities. Participating teens are required to be currently enrolled and in good-standing in either high school or a GED program, drug-free and committed to work.

All work and training was completed under the supervision of licensed subcontractors with only two requirements of these young men:

- Be enrolled and in good-standing in high school or a GED program.
- Be on time for work – no excuses.

The Construction Ministries Charitable Fund will be used to promote youth mentoring and workforce training, provide home repairs to the elderly, disabled and financially needy, promote community and racial reconciliation, and promote community development in the state.
